FIRE SERVICE INSTRUCTOR QUALIFICATIONS

Quality instruction is the key to a successful firefighter training program, and most importantly, firefighter safety. Whether instructors teach at their own department, at the Fire Training Academy, or around the region/state, they have a responsibility to ensure that quality instruction is presented and their responsibilities remain the same. These responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

- Maintaining instructional quality
- Ensuring current, recognized subject matter/curriculum is being taught
- Advising participants
- Ensuring accurate documentation of training sessions
- Ensuring proper testing procedures
- Providing a safe learning environment for the students

The Office of the State Fire Marshal, in conjunction with the Regional Training Councils, will provide evaluators, instructors, and instructor development courses directed to the needs of all fire service instructors.

DEFINITIONS

FOOTNOTES:

¹ This requirement only applies to instructors who will evaluate and sign skill books.

² This requirement may be met by attending state conference classes or Office of the State Fire Marshal-offered classes. This requirement does not have to be fully met until July 2004.

³ Training will be available to support this requirement through the Office of the State Fire Marshal. Contact the Staff Development Coordinator for details. This requirement does not have to be fully met until July 2004.

⁴ Instructors must have completed a WSP HazMat Train-the-Trainer course to use WSP-provided training materials.

⁵ This requirement is in accordance with the Instructor Development Plan of the Fire Training Academy and Office of the State Fire Marshal (courses will become required as available).

NOTES

Regional Instructor applicants must have recommendations from one of the following:

- Local chief or dean; or
- Local or County Training Council, if available; or
- Regional Training Council; or
- Fire Marshal's Staff Development Coordinator.

Fire Training Academy Instructors must have demonstrated breadth of instructional experience and depth of technical knowledge. We seek applicants who have been active in teaching in the Fire Protection regions; however, this is not a requirement. They should be aware that a background check and polygraph test administered by Washington State Patrol staff will be required.

Recruit School Instructors must have demonstrated breadth of instructional experience and depth of technical knowledge. We seek applicants who have been active in teaching in the Fire Protection regions or county or department academies. However, this is not a requirement.

Outreach Instructors must:

- Commit to professional growth and learning.
- Conduct a minimum of 32 hours of instruction per year.
- Maintain status as a Washington State Qualified Evaluator.¹
- Have a bi-annual peer review of teaching by another Outreach Instructor or Fire Protection Bureau Staff Development Coordinator or designee.
- Have trainee evaluations reviewed by Regional Training Council or Fire Protection Bureau Staff Development Coordinator or designee prior to re-recognition of Instructor status.
- Receive a minimum of 8 hours of continuing instructor development education.³
- Have recommendations from:
 - Local or County Training Council, if available.
 - Regional Training Council.
 - Peer review evaluator.

An outreach instructor's professional development will be reviewed every three years. When an instructor first teaches after certification, that instruction must be under supervision. Contact the Staff Development Coordinator for details.
